

The Sociology Node of the Urban Research Based Action Network (URBAN) is participating in a series of activities to advance collaborative, community-based research at the August meetings of the American Sociological Association (ASA) and the Society for the Study of Social Problems (SSSP) that may be of interest to community engaged scholars. URBAN is a national, interdisciplinary network of scholars engaged in collaborative research to advance equity and social justice. We hope you will join us! Check our website for additional information on URBAN (<http://urbanresearchnetwork.org/>).

Session 531: Revitalization, Relocation, & Right to the City Organizer and Presider: Gregory D. Squires Who owns the city? Who has the right to the private amenities and public services provided in the nation’s metropolitan areas? Who gets what and why, and who should get what and why? The persistence of racial segregation, concentrated poverty and uneven development generally – the signal features of metropolitan areas in the US – clearly privilege a small minority at a time of surging inequality. Gentrification, and what to do about it, have been at the heart of recent policy debates and will be the focus of this panel. (Panel: Lance Freeman; Derek Hyra; Pramila Jayapal; Nick Lacata).	Tuesday, August 23, 12:30 to 2:00 pm Location : Washington State Convention Center, Level Three, Room 310
